Do not write your access codes on your personal computer or other access device. You are responsible for safekeeping your access codes. You agree not to disclose or otherwise make your access codes or authentication information available to anyone not authorized to sign on your accounts. Other charges that may apply are set forth on The Summit's current Rate and Fee Schedule.

6. Member Liability. You are responsible for all transactions you authorize using our online services under this Agreement. If you permit other persons to use your access code (Personal Identification Number, password) or authentication information, you are responsible for any transactions they authorize or conduct on any of your accounts. The best way to keep your possible losses down is to contact us by phone. You could lose all the money in your account plus your maximum overdraft protection/line of credit limit, and any available funds you may have in your Primary Savings account. If you tell us within two (2) business days of discovery that your access code or authentication information has been lost or stolen, you can lose no more than $50 if someone accessed your account without your permission. If you do not tell us within two (2) business days after you learn that your access code or authentication information has been lost or stolen or that there has been unauthorized use of an EFT service, and we can prove that we could have stopped someone from accessing your account without your permission if you told us, you could lose as much as $500.00. Also, if your statement shows EFT transactions that you did not make, tell us at once. If you do not tell us within sixty (60) days after the statement was mailed to you, you may not get back any money lost after the 60 days if we can prove that we could have stopped someone from making the transfers if you told us in time. If a good reason (such as a hospital stay) kept you from telling us, we will extend the time period.
