Families! Money activities at your fingertips!

We're always looking for financial literacy resources that help families pass on good financial habits to their kids. The Everything Kids Money Book, by Brette McWhorter Sember, J.D., has 30 puzzles and great information to help parents and kids discover the fascinating world of money!

Take the piggy bank quiz!

How do you use your money? Like a squirrel, a dolphin, or a spider?

1 My piggy bank has $10 in it. I'm going to:

Keep it there and add more money to it.

Take it out and buy something for my new baby sister.

Buy myself a toy at the dollar store and give the rest of the money to a local animal hospital.

2 There are $2 in my piggy bank. I want to:

Buy snacks at the 4th grade class's fundraiser to help them meet their goal.

Bring the $2 with me to the beach and buy an ice cream cone.

Leave the $2 there and add more money to my piggy bank.

3 A new kid in school just lost her favorite toy so I:

Take my piggy bank money and buy myself another toy so that I'll have another one to play with if I lose one.

Invite my new friend over to play with my toys.

Tell her I'm sorry she lost her toy and sell her one of my extra toys for a quarter, which I can add to my piggy bank.

4 When Mom or Dad gives me 50 cents for doing a chore, I:

Add it to my piggy bank, and do more chores to earn more money to save in my piggy bank.

Take it with me to school and buy my best friend a snack during lunch.

Give it to my brother or sister so he or she can put it into their piggy bank.

5 My piggy bank is overflowing. I'm going to:

Take all the money out and spend it.

Take some of the money to my teacher for our classroom holiday party.

Get a bigger piggy bank!

6 I just found $1 in my backpack! I'm going to:

Donate it to my favorite charity.

Put it in my piggy bank.

Buy myself something right now!

If most of your answers are brown, then you are a Squirrel!

You like to gather and save your money in a safe place, and you like to watch your money grow! This is a smart way to use your money, as you'll always have enough to buy what you need and possibly even a little extra to give to someone in need.

If most of your answers are blue, then you are a Dolphin!

Like the dolphin, you like to do good for others. When it comes to making smart decisions about what to do with your money, you're learning that giving your money to those in need feels good. Helping out a friend or someone in need is a good thing, as long as you remember to save your money first and then see how much you can give to others.

If most of your answers are purple, then you are a Spider!

Spiders love to give gifts to those that they like! You're probably new to both saving and giving money to others because you like to spend it on cool gifts for friends, family, and yourself. Think about what you could do if you saved your money! Remember, you can start saving at any time for the things you need. Then if you have any extra money, you can always buy something for yourself or a friend.
